Advisory Service and How We Can Help You

As a member of the Society our Advisory Engineers are on hand to offer you unlimited, impartial technical advice and information for all concrete related issues.

Available for site visits, independent reviews, problem solving, practical advice and more, the Advisory Service is staffed by permanent employees of The Society who are experienced, qualified engineers and technologists.

SITE VISITS – Our Advisory Engineers can usually be on site the next day to offer practical on-the-spot advice backed up by a comprehensive report confirming findings and recommendations – an invaluable service for solving on-site technical issues and resolving disputes rapidly.

INDEPENDENT REVIEW – If you have reports e.g. cube results, cores results, specifications or client inspections from various organisations, etc. and would like an independent assessment of the available information, we can provide a comprehensive technical commentary citing relevant standards, technology and best practice.
